Matt

I have reviewed the changes. I have a question on one change and an addition in another. I agree with the other changes.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->1) <!--[endif]-->In Performance Standard I see the language that was changed. However, not quite sure how the new lines are less open ended than the previous deleted lines. Please clarify.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->2) <!--[endif]-->Under Task 7 Risk Assessment b) Baseline Ecological Risk Assessment Step 3) added a statement "If needed" before the DRAFT BERA Problem Formulation Report, since this step may not be needed and we can determine that at the end of step 3.

Raji – please see attached two versions of the AOI-1 Statement of Work (SOW), revised per EPA comments dated January 2, 2014. One is a redline of the document, the other is a clean version with all changes accepted.

You and I previously discussed the primary issues with the document, but I know it's been a while since that conversation. Regardless, I don't believe there is anything particularly controversial left to resolve.

Regarding the redline version attached: For some reason, the track changes feature in the document does not differentiate (in different colors) between various commenters, as is normally the case for MS Word documents. Pat Gobb noticed this first when he tried to save his comments. We have tried to figure out the problem but have not been able to. However, I think that you can tell whose comments are whose using the comment boxes on the right side of the page. Each box has the author noted (either EPA or the PRP Group). If this issue becomes a problem as we try to finalize this, we can try to start from scratch and add all the changes back in manually. I would be happy also to have a call with you to go through the document in detail, if that would help. Once we've agreed on the revisions, we can do final formatting of the document (revise table of contents, pagination, etc.).

Please contact me to discuss at your convenience. I look forward to talking with you.

Regards,

Matt
